

Choose to be lucky

Local bee pollen and organic chia and pumpkin seeds contain valuable proteins, minerals and vitamins.

Yogurt from Topeka's Half-Day creamery or Forager's cashew-gurt is a delightful source of nutrients like calcium, protein and fiber.

Warm Kansas honey from Labertew Honey Co. is a delicious probiotic that helps strengthen the immune system.

Seasonal berries are a sweet and refreshing burst of flavor.

Frozen acai pulp straight from the acai palm trees of South America is antioxidant-rich and loaded with health benefits.

At Luckyberry, we celebrate the best of our local farms and whole food producers. You'll taste it in our cold-pressed juice, on our seasonal salad bar, and in our smoothies and artisan ice creams. Besides our Brazilian acai berries, avocados and citrus fruits, we pretty much stick with what's seasonal, local, and when possible, organic.

We hope you'll feel nourished, sustained, and comforted.
